Discovering one's true passion is often a matter of faith. Enter Nicole Arnold. "I began my career in apparel and really enjoyed the marketing and sales roles I held, but when I decided it was time to leave I was unsure what to do next," Arnold says. "Through prayer, coaching and self-discovery, I came to the conclusion that I would leverage my business acumen, intuitive talent for design, experience with textiles and collaborative spirit and open an interior design firm." As Founder and Principal Designer at Nicole Arnold Interiors, she's applied these unique skills and gifts to creating award-winning spaces since 2008. "Educating my clients and showing them how we can creatively and professionally solve their dilemmas both energizes and motivates me," Arnold shares. "From discovery to communicating our unique abilities to aligning with client goals to the final installation, I love what I do!"

Top Refined without being pretentious, this formal living room exudes casual elegance. Left Organic elements keep this area approachable and beautiful. Center Metallic-printed grasscloth is moody against the playful lights and lacquered vanity. Right This entryway's design and details create a warm welcome for guests.

Goal Oriented

When asked what's new and next for her and her firm, Nicole Arnold explains, "In addition to continuing to grow our residential and commercial client base in the DFW market, we're really enjoying creating second and third homes for our clients, both locally and across the nation. And, we're having a ball with the growing number of high rise living spaces we've been asked to design. These are areas where we excel and can deliver amazing experiences to our customers. I'm also looking forward to continuing my mentoring activities with students from SMU, Collin College and UNT, as well as hosting more speaking events at their venues where I can share my story with other women who are interested in changing careers or are looking to reach their full potential."
